His mind seems to be pretty well restored, but he complains that his health is very bad, and he is not at himself yet.

The proprietors of the Atkin house have been giving for several weeks and have now almost completed a thorough going over and renewing of that popular stopping place, from top to bottom. PRESBYTERY OF UNION.

In Session at the Second Presbyterian Church.

The Presbytery of Union convened last night, in the chapel of the Second Presbyterian church, in this city. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. L. E. Jaynes, of New Market, retiring moderator.

After the sermon was preached, the Presbytery was called to order for business, the roll being called by Rev. W. H. Lyle, retiring clerk.

A number of the members and delegates had not arrived, but will be here to-day.

The first business in order was announced to be the election of a moderator.

Rev. Dr. P. M. Bartlett and Rev. E. S. Herron were placed in nomination. Mr. Herron declined, and Rev. Dr. Bartlett, president of the Maryville College, was elected to the office of moderator.

For temporary clerk Rev. W. H. Lyle, of Dandridge, and Col. A. A. Barnes, of Knoxville, were nominated. Mr. Lyle declined and Colonel Barnes was elected.

On motion of Rev. Wm. Aiken, the presbytery adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning, closing with prayer by Dr. Bartlett.

The business sessions of the Presbytery will continue during the remainder of the week. It was announced that all the meetings will be open, and all who choose to attend will be welcomed. Religious services will be held each night, and perhaps at other hours, announcement of which will be made from time to time.

There will be preaching in the chapel to-night at 7 o'clock, by Rev. W. H. Lyle, of Dandridge. All are invited.

THE RECENT MATRICIDE.

Yell Ekkle Waives Examination and is Bound to Court.

Yell W. Ekkle, who killed his mother, Tuesday evening, by striking her on the back of the head with a crib slat, while in a fit of drunkenness, was taken out of jail, yesterday, and brought before Justice King for a preliminary examination. The warrant was sworn out by officer Mose Smith, and charges him with murder in the first degree. Naturally enough, quite a crowd of people was gathered around the justice's office.

The prisoner was asked if he had any counsel or advisers, to which he replied no; that he had learned some of his folks intended to employ counsel for him, but didn't know what would be done. No attorney appeared for the prosecution, either. In reply to a question by the justice as to what he wished to do, the prisoner replied that he wanted to waive an examination. The papers were drawn up accordingly, and the prisoner bound over to the next term of criminal court, which meets the first Monday in May. The important witnesses were also bound in a sum of $250 each to appear at that time.

Although no application was made for bail, it was treated by the justice as an unobtainable case, and the prisoner was recommitted to jail to await his trial. It is said that it is the intention of the afflicted father and bereaved husband to have nothing to do, one way or the other, with the legal investigation or prosecution of the case, but will let the law take its proper course.

The Would-be Suicide Convict.

We understand that the convict from Johnson county, who attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, is getting along very well, much better than he would wish, no doubt, and the indications are that he will have to go to work again soon. His name is John Logins, instead of "Lyons" as it appeared in our account of the deed a few days since.

Attempt at Incendiarism.

About half past one o'clock yesterday morning, a colored man, who lives with Matt McCleung, was going home from a serenading tour, when he discovered a fire, which appeared to be just blazing up on the cellar door at the residence of Mrs. Payne, on the corner of Clinch and Walnut streets, and an investigation proved that it was an attempt by some villain to set fire to the house, which, but for the accidental discovery, would have been accomplished. A tub of water was found in the yard and dashed on it and the fire soon quenched.

There was found a lot of kindling wood, paper, rags, etc., saturated with coal oil, to which a match had evidently been touched. It was certainly a bold trick in such a public part of the city, and at that hour. There is no clue, as far as we can learn, but it is hoped the villain can be ferreted out and brought to justice.

Refuting a Slander.

It having been published in a Cincinnati paper that two of the Knoxville delegates to the recent Cincinnati exposition had sold their return tickets at a scalper's office, and returned another route, it was deemed necessary by those who are in the city at present to take some steps to refute the implication. Consequently a meeting was held yesterday evening, of which Col. J. W. Gant was president, and Col. C. W. Charlton, secretary. A resolution was passed branding the statement as false, and the secretary was instructed to demand the author of the report. The meeting adjourned subject to a call of the chairman.

They say business is dull; sugar and coffee are selling slowly. Not so with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. We understand our druggists can hardly supply the demand.

Rheumatism, Yes, and Neuralgia, too, are greatly relieved and often entirely cured by the use of Perry Davis' PAIN-KILLER. Try it. All druggists keep it.

Grand Commandery, U. O. G. C.

The Grand Commandery of the United Order of the Golden Cross convened in Nashville last Tuesday, with grand officers present as follows: S. H. Day, grand commander. Kitty R. Campbell, Nashville, grand vice commander. J. H. W. Jones, Union City, grand prelate.

Geo. B. Stadden, Nashville, grand keeper of records.

E. W. Adkins, Knoxville, grand treasurer.

R. G. Osborne, Knoxville, grand herald.

J. W. Robertson, Sweetwater, grand warden of the outer gate.

The reports of the grand officers were read and referred to appropriate committees.

Mrs. Adkins and Mrs. Osborne accompanied their husbands from this city.

Married.

At the Catholic Church, last night, Mr. Thos. Boyle and Miss Mary Fitzgerald, all of this city.

The church was crowded with friends of the couple to witness the nuptial ceremonies. Afterwards a large party of invited guests repaired to Spilro's hall, where a reception and ball was given in honor of the newly-wedded ones.

"Indigestion."

You have tried everything for it and found no help. We are no doctors, but can offer a prescription that has cured very many, and it might cure you as well; it will cost but a quarter dollar, and can be had at any druggist's. Ask for Perry Davis' PAIN-KILLER.

Miss Louise Pomeroy.

Seats for the engagement of Louise Pomeroy, beginning next Monday night, are in demand, and are being taken rapidly at the E. T. Book House. An exchange speaks thus of her wonderful talent:

"Rosaland" is one of Shakespeare's most exquisite creations, and a character that requires personal beauty, genuine dramatic feeling, and grace in her representation. Louise Pomeroy as Rosaland can have but few equals, and no superior on the stage. While in the character proper she is fine, it is while she is masquerading in the forest of Ardenne, and in the character of Gynemede, that her histrionic ability is brought out to its fullest relief. The scene with Orlando in the forest is a perfect chef d'oeuvre of excellent acting, only rivaled by that other scene where the brother of Orlando comes upon the scene. Her acting is exquisite. Mr. W. H. Leake, as Jacques, is grand. With a magnificent voice, a perfect articulation, an absolutely correct reading, and an admirable conception of the character, Mr. Leake has made himself Jacques, as Miss Pomeroy is Rosaland."

Unless the food is properly prepared in the stomach it becomes corrupt and poisons the system it is intended nourish. Dyspepsia and its accompaniments are Bad Breath, Headache, Constipation, Jaundice, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Depression of Spirits or the Blues, and a hundred other symptoms. "My wife has suffered for many years with Indigestion and Dyspepsia. I must admit, after trying everything else recommended to me, I tried your Regulator—in three days after taking it according to your directions (teaspoonful after each meal), she has been in perfect health; she does not suffer at all, and can eat anything she wants without any of her previous symptoms."
